CLOSE OF THE CONCLAVE.

A Jubilee to Celebrate the Anniversary of the Sons and Daughters of Honor.

The National Conclave of the Sons and Daughters of Honor yesterday attended to the consideration of routine business. A resolution presented by Josephine Torrence, R. W. S., of Kentucky, providing a new regalia for the daughters was adopted. Grand Secretary Garrett made a report of the Kentucky Grand Lodge meeting, which was held at Shelbyville, and a report was submitted by the Indiana secretary of the proceedings of this State's Grand Lodge. To-day will be celebrated the fortieth anniversary of the organization of the order at the Exposition Building. Large delegations from Ohio, Kentucky and various points of the State are expected, and upon arrival will be received at the Fayette-street Rink. A procession will be formed at the corner of Washington and Tennessee streets, and will march to the fair grounds, where various amusements will be indulged in. There is a prize drill billed and a game of ball between picked nines from this city and Louisville. R. Spalding will be marshal of thy day, and speeches will be made by Washington Beckley, L. C. Carter, Rev. John Will-isms and Rev. J. A. Preston, city; E. T. Butler, Springheld: Rev. R. Dickerson, Shelbyville, Ky.; William Beckley, Kentucky; George Buck-ner, William Dorsey and Rev. Moses Hundley, Louisville, and Green Derrickson, Rushville. Last evening the conclave elected the following officers to serve until 1890: National Master-Wm. Brown, Versailles, Ky. Assistant National Master-J. S. Stapleton, Louis-

Secretary-Washington Beckley, Indianapolia. Chaplatu-Dr. Pierce, Indianadolis. Treasurer-J. B. Williams, Indianapolis. Pilot-Willis T. Garnett, Louisville, Ky. Sergeant-at-arms- amuel Gilbert, Indianapolis. Guard-Frank McBourn, Shepardsville, Ky. The conclave closed its session after installing the above officers.

VERY OFFICIOUS PERSONS

They Want to Change the Order of Giving Contracts to Lowest Bidder.

Gruelle and Other Agitators in the Employ of the Democratic Committees Ask Favors from the City for the Sentinel.

A few men who are using the name of the Central Labor Union at the direction of the Democratic State central committee, are becoming unmasked, and as their motives are being exposed they are losing what little influence they ever did have. As agitators they have for several years attempted to attend to everybody's business but their own, and many men in all the labor organizations bear vitness that their management has thrown more menout of employment, and created more disturbances between employers and employes than any other cause. They do but little work themselves, and have for years lived off the carnings of the men who do honest toil. The labor organizations have attempted time and again to get rid of them, but as soon as they were deprived of one position they bobbed up in some other and assumed to manage affairs. Early in this campaign they went into the employ of the Democratic State and Marion county central committees, and since that time have been attempting to fulfill a contract to turn the labor organizations of the city over to the Democratic party. They are directed by the Democratic committee to make a fight on General Harrison through the Central Labor Union. To carry out their contract they recently introduced a set of resolutions in the union that were indorsed by the Democrats I resent, and voted against by every Republican. These resolutions they have sent out to the various labor organizations of the city, and have been striving for several weeks to have them acted upon. The attempt to turn the organizations into a political machine has created a revolt among those who insist that the constitution of all the unions specifies that politics shall not be introduced into the meetings. These Democrats, however, care more for carrying out their contract with the State central committee than they do for the welfare of the labor organizations, and will not beed the advice of those who want politics kept out of the organizations. It is the same crowd of Democratic heelers that attended the meeting of Republican workingmen at the State-house grounds Thursday night, and attempted to capture it and turn it into a Democratic meeting. The resolutions introduced at the after-meeting of Democrats had been prepared in advance by Ed. Gould and Tom Gruelle, and it was planned that Gould and L. P. Custer should run the meeting.

The same persons appeared in a new role last night, and were tendered a reception they had night, and were tendered a reception they had not anticipated. Three weeks ago bids were submitted to the City Council for doing the city printing for the ensuing year. Two bids were submitted. The Sentinel bid twenty-five cents per square and the Indianapolis Gazette, a Republican paper, published by Dynes Brothers, bid 12 cents per square. The bids were referred to the committee on contracts, composed of Councilmen Darnell, McClelland and Stuckmeyer. As soon as the reference was made these labor agitators proffered their services to the Sentinel to secure it the contract. ices to the Sentinel to secure it the contract. The same night that they had the Democrate in the Central Labor Union vote for a resolution condemning General Harrison they had them vote for a resolution requesting the committee to award the contract to rhe Sentinel because, as they alleged, the Gazette was a non-union office. The committee met last night, and the agitators were on hand early. Tom Gruelle apoke first.
He said the Labor Union opposed giving the contract to the Gazette simply because it was a non-union paper, and requested that the Sentinel have it, although it proposed to charge just twice as much as the Gazette. [A good way, of course, to save the laboring men of Dynes, in reply to Gruelle, that the Gazette was a union office, and had been for several years. It employed none but union printers, and had refused men employment because they did not belong to the union. He then introduced a union printer on the News, who corroborated his statement, and said he was made foreman when the paper became a union office. Mr. Dynes said further that if the union objected to him having the contract at should have had a committee there. He charged that the Democrats present had made an attempt to have the union act in the matter, and that it refused because the old members knew the office had been unionized. "Is there not a little politics in this?" inquired Chairman Darnell.

"Not a bit," said Gruelle. "I just want to ask for information," said Dar-"How many of you gentlemen are Demo-

That question made the agitators "hot, " so to speak, and Grueile went off on a long harangue about how union labor was against General Har-rison, and how he had once voted the Democratic ticket (a good many years ago), and how, after voting for Hancock, in 1880, he had been thoroughly independent."

"You will vote for Cleveland and Thurman this year, won't you!" asked Councilman Dar-"Yes, I will," was the reply.

Darnell then suggested that it looked a little suspicious to him that the resolution asking that the printing be given to the Sentinel should have been passed the same night General Harrison was condemned. The able agitators got wrathy then, and John Bodenmiller suggested that the next time he came before a committee of the Council he would bring his credentials.

Mr. Dynes stated that he bid on the printing in good faith and in a business-like manner. His bid was just half as high as that of the Sentinel, and he thought he should have the sontract. He was a Republican, was runing a union office, and he did not like to have a gang of Democrats come in and attempt to interfere with his business. "There is not a man in the number you have here," said he, "that will not vote the Democratic ticket. You are all working for the Democrats. Gruelle is publishing a Democratic paper. You are the same men who attended the meeting of Republican workingmen, who had gathered and called on Governor Porter, and attempted to capture it for the Democrats." The agitators made no response to Dynes's arraignment, and Councilman Darnell said to them that he had as much sympathy with the laboring men as anybody. He was a mechanic himself, and had probably done more hard work than any so-called labor representative present. He was willing to accord genuine labor representatives a hearing, but he could not be caught in any political trap. He further said that for the purpose of giving the "committee" time to prove that it was not attempting to work a political scheme he would defer awarding the contract and meet them again next Monday night. That closed the The Irish for Protection. R. R. Shiel has received a letter from R. T. Dow, of Atlanta, Ga., in which it appears that Bynum's free-trade talk in that city had an opposite effect from what the speaker and the Democrats in that locality desired. After thanking Mr. Shiel for the sentiments he expressed in his recent interview published in the New York Tribune, Mr. Dow states that he is in thorough accord with those sentiments, and cannot conceive how any Irish-American who studies the platform of both parties can do otherwise than vote for Harrison and Morton. "It may be considered an axiomatic truth," he continues, "confirmed by history, that any measure or any set of principles meeting with the cordial and unanimous indorsement of English statesmen and the English press cannot be for the best interests of this government or this country. If no other reason were offered me for voting the Republican ticket the clamor of the English press for the re-election of Cleveland would be sufficient. 'England's difficulty is Ireland's opportunity' has passed into a political adage. Now, England's difficulty is at present, and has been, the economic system known as 'protection to American industries for protection's sake.' If Irish Nationalists, who are almost invariably patriotic Americans in the broadest and fullest sense of the word, wish to strike a telling blow at our arch enemy England, a blow that will strike England in the most sensitive part of her being ther commercial greed); a blow in the interest of our motherland, but, what is far more important, a blow in the name of American protective principles and American industrial supremacy, then, in the name of God, America and motherland, let them vote for Harrison and Morton and retire Cieveland and his red bandanna annex to private life. "I was once, like so many Irishmen, a Demoerat, but I was always a protectionist.

My first Republican vote was cast for that greatest of living Americans, James G.

Blaine. I never had any faith in the Cleveland Democracy and Mesers. Bayard. Phelps and the balance of the brilliant company of Angloman-tacs, and each day confirmed me in my course, until, by a natural process of political evotluion

I embraced the Republican faith and bade a cheerful farewell to the Democratic party and its free-trade vagaries.

"We have had two little tin gods of Democracy down here recently, Messrs. Mills and Bynum. They came down to heal Democratic sores and weld into a harmonious whole the disunited Democracy. Well, they did not draw like a circus, and I think returned to Washington wiser, if not sadder men. The workingmen of Atlanta are not fools. They are reading and thinking beings, and they are perfectly satisfied with protection. The Knights of Labor have developed a strong protection sentiment in this city, and while the vast majority are Democrats they are not by any means of the free trade or tariff for revenue only species. I heard Messrs. Mills and Bynum address a small crowd, supposed to be a spontaneous serenading party, but which had been drummed by dodgers and personal appeals of the young Democracy. I can promise that wherever Mills and Bynum may appear they will make converts for protec-tion. Do you know Mr. Bynum? I met him and asked him about the tariff on rice, and why they did not apply the theory of the Mills bill to the tariff on that product. He said, 'I am in favor of putting rice on the free list because you cannot raise rice down here.' That theory may do for Indiana, but the facts furnished Georgia and South Carolina do not carry out the theory. The most startling historic and economic fact which he stated was that 'Ireland had been ruined, not on account of free trade, but because free trade was taken away from her.' Now I must have been reading Irish history upside down, for this was a fact I never stumbled on or never had thrown at me before."

They Will Bluff No More. A few blatant Democrate, who have been attempting to make political capital by offering to bet fabulous sums on Indiana with people who they know do not gamble, are sometimes picked up. There are quite a number of these gentlemen around the city, and they have made it a practice to never meet a man they knew wouldn't bet without offering to wager any sum that Cleveland would earry Indiana. About noon yesterday Councilman Darnell happened to be in the postoffice, and was there accosted by Ben Johnson, a postoffice employe, who of-fered to bet $100 on Indiana's going for Cleveland. Mr. Darnell said be never bet, and as a crowd gathered around Johnson told him he would pay him $20 if he would bring him a man that would bet that way. Mr. Darnell weut out to the pump, and while getting a drink a well-known citizen, walked up and slipped five $20 gold pieces into his hand and told him to take that bet for him, and get $400 more if he could. Darnell walked back into the office and told Johnson he did not want his $20, but he would bet $100 even, and make it $500 if he said so. Johnson turned pale, they say, and said he "was only joking. I don't bet." The crowd guyed him until there was so much noise that Postmaster Jones came out and them away, saying he did not want any such gangs around the office. Darnell told him he no cause to complain, as it was his own employe who had caused the excitement. Another professional Democratic bluffer Moody. They Dow he rides around on street cars, offers to bet with every Republican who is opposed to wagers he meets and knows. Yesterday he happened to meet a gentleman of that kind and offered to bet $500 on Cleveland carrying Indiana. The gentleman accepted the bet immediately, but Moody pleaded the baby act, too, by saying he was just in a joke.

The Intense Heat. These days in summer of almost unprecedented heat has prompted many a wish for a cooling rain and a refreshing breeze. The thermometer did not register below 90 degrees very long between sunrise and sunset yesterday. At noon the mercury was up 95 degrees, and at 3 o'clock it registered 97 degrees. During the afternoon there was a slight breeze that afforded some relief, and late in the afternoon there were slight indications of rain.

The down-pour did not come though, and last night the signal officers could not see how there could be any rainfall for a day or two yet, although there were local showers throughout Indiana all day yesterday. It will probably be as hot to-day as it was yesterday, unless it should rain. A great many people suffered from the heat yesterday, and but for the care nearly all observed, there would likely have been many prostrations. There was but one death from the heat. In the afternoon John Schisler, a laborer, fell at the corner of Washington and East streets. He was carried into a drug store near by, but died before medical aid could be procured. He was about forty years of age, and had no family.

A Clerk Discharged. Carl Hoebig, one of the oldest of the Democratic clerks in the pension office, has been discharged by Col. Zollinger, the pension agent. He was not given a moment's notice that his services were no longer desirable, but was going up to Joe Riley, the chief clerk, to pay a political assessment, when he was notified that he was not wanted any longer. Mr. Hoebig has always been a faithful clerk, and has represented the German element of the party in the pension office, with which element he has a particularly high standing. His place has been given to a son of Bigham, who is on the Democratic legislative ticket. It has been a custom in the office to give Republicans thirty days notice when they were to go, and on this account Mr. Hoebig thinks he has been accorded very shabby treatment. Mr. Hoebig has always in the party as to have correspondence with Vilas and other officials at Washington. Don't Want Him to Run. A committee of Democrats, composed of L. P.

Custer, J. C. Willetts, Andrew Wilson, M. S. Farnham and Mr. Martin, all pretending to represent the workingmen, called on ex-Governor Porter yesterday morning, and presented the resolutions adopted at a Democratic meeting Thursday night, opposing his nomination for Governor. Governor Porter received the visitors courteously.

Meetings of the Clubs. The Young Ladies' Harrison Glee Club will meet at 377 Home avenue, to-night, at 8:30 o'clock. Additional members will be received. The Twenty-first ward Republicans organized their club last night with a large membership. the officers being selected as follows: President, P. T. Trusler; vice-president, Harold Haines; secretary, W. P. Pyes; treasurer, P. J. Smock.

The Seventh ward Republicans have organized a military company in connection with their club. The officers are: Captain, John Henry; first lieutenant, Lewrence Foss; second lieutenant, Alex. Harbison; orderly sergeant, Wm. Richard; quartermaster, John Harlin; drum-major, Frank Fisher.

The survivors of the cavalry regiments living in Indianapolis met in the Criminal Court room last night, and took preliminary steps toward forming a Harrison and Morton company. They will meet with the Veterans' Harrison and Mor-ton Regiment next Monday evening, and will be assigned a place in that organization. The Harrison Escort Guards held a meeting in the Council chamber last night. There were 150 present. The full number of members desired, 200, has been secured. A drum corps of thirty-seven members has been organ-ized, and is practicing daily. The unforms have been ordered, and will cost $15. They will be here in a few days, and the club will then be ready to do escort duty for all visiting delegations. The company is drilled by Cap-tain Kercheval every Tuesday evening.

Property to Be Condemned.

A letter was yesterday issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, at Washington, condemning the property on Pennsylvania street, immediately south of the postoffice. It will be appraised and paid for at an early date and the work of tearing down the buildings will be begun as soon as practicable.

President Cleveland Visibly Affected.

Washington Oritic. "Daniel," said the President this morning, with a quiver in his lip and tears glistening in his eyes, "have you read that twenty-four column paragraph in the New York Tribune about me and my appointees?" "I have heard, sire, that some of them are referred to as jailbirds, blackguards, impostors, till-tappers, mail robbers, horse-thieves and

"That's it. Daniel, that's it," interrupted the Presidents pacing up and down the room. "For twenty-four years the Democrats were out, and they had to do something to keep from starving! Oh. Daniel, Daniel, the heartless cruelty of the press is breaking my heart!" And the President laid his head on Daniel's bosom and sobbed like a child. A Cruel Wish.

MEETINGS AT BETHAFY.

Observance of Children's Day, with Interesting Exercises.

Considerable disappointment and vexation was caused by a delay in the arrival of both the northern and the southern-bound trains at Bethany assembly grounds on yesterday morning; and the delay in the advertised time was still greater in the evening; so much so that the train which reached this city last night was one or two hours behind the advertised time. Yesterday was called children's day, and the exercises in the tabernacle were crowded into a little over one hour's time in the forenoon because of the late arrival of the trains. L. L. Carpenter, of Wabash, was master of ceremonies. The Third Christian Sunday-school, of this city, took the first part, in which Mabel Hopkins gave a recitation, and a solo was sung by the school. Nellie Greene and Master Arthur Hadley, of the Plainfield school, also recited appropriate pieces. Howard Atkinson, of Wabash, favored the audience with a solo, as did also Miss Nellie Rayl, of Kokomo. The Martinsville Sunday-school sang several pieces, and Willie Mitchell, nine years of age, surprised the audience by his wonderful manipulation of

At the afternoon session, Elder Love H. Jameson, of this city, sang "When the Mists Are Cleared Away," the audience joining in the chorus. Baby Rhea Carpenter, of Wabash, delighted the little folks with a story about the rain of forty days and forty nights in Noah's time; and then Mr. W. H. Levering, of Lafayette, long identified with Sunday school work in Indiana, spoke on "Our Country, Our Home and Our Churches." He astonished his hearers by declaring that not one-tenth of the children of the State are attending Sunday-schools, and that a large majority of that number are girls; that only 25 per cent of the young men of the State ever enter a house of worship, and that only 5 per cent are church-members. He indulged in severe strictures on church members who allow the saloon element to shape political affairs, and insisted the evil element marches in front while church members follow to its music. He urged upon every one, especially the men of the land, to stand in the places assigned them by the Creator, at the head of the family, the church and the state.

L. L. Carpenter, of Wabash, at night delivered a lecture on "The Future of Our Sundayschools," asserting that in a single generation the present methods will work out a union of God's people, a type of stronger Christian workers, and more liberal contributors to the spread of the gospel. There is nothing on the programme for this forenoon, but at 3 P. M. ex-Minister Nelson, of Terre Haute, is booked for an address on the material and political condition of Mexico. At 7:30 Mr. Sweeney, of Columbus, recently from a visit to the Holy Land, will give an illustrated lecture on the "Eternal City." A train leaves for Bethany Park at 11:50 this morning. Tomorrow (Sunday) but one train leaves this city for the park-at 8:30 A. M.; returning, it arrives here at 6:05 p. M. Z. T. Sweeney preaches in the forenoon, and B. B. Tyler, now of New York city, formerly an Indianian, preaches in the afternoon, while W. B. F. Treat, of Martinsville, will deliver the sermon at night.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ABSOLUTELY PURE. For quick raising, the Royal Baking Powder is superior to all other leavening agents. It is absolutely pure and wholesome and of the highest leavening power. It is always uniform in strength and quality and never fails to make light, sweet, most palatable and nutritive food. Bread, biscuits, muffins, cake, etc., raised with Royal Baking Powder may be eaten hot without distressing results to the most delicate digestive organs. It will keep in any climate without deterioration. Prof. H. A. Mott, U. S. Government Chemist, after examining officially the principal baking powders of the country, reported:

"The Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure, for I have so found it in many tests made both for that company and the United States Government.

"Because of the facilities that company have for obtaining perfectly pure cream of tartar, and for other reasons dependent upon the proper proportions of the same, and the method of its preparation, the Royal Baking Powder is undoubtedly the purest and most reliable baking powder offered to the public.
